FINANCIAL FLUTTER.

A Hoosier Bank Falls and a Run on Others.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL. INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—Ritzinger Brothers' bank, established in 1867, and which has done a large business among the Germans, did not open its doors this morning, the proprietors, Frank L. and Augustus W. Ritzinger, having made an assignment to George B. Yandes. The papers were executed after midnight this morning. Rumors caused a falling off in its business to such a degree as to necessitate a suspension of business.

The partners say that every dollar will be paid. One of the attorneys says the assets will amount to between $300,000 and $400,000, but its estate is not easily convertible. In banking circles it is said the Ritzingers have lost $100,000 within the past nine months on whisky and $10,000 on stoves, which is the exciting cause of the failure. An angry crowd surrounded the bank doors all the morning.

A run has begun on S. A. Fletcher & Co's bank, but it is hoped and believed that they will be amply able to weather the storm. This is the oldest in the city and regarded as the most substantial.

No effect has yet been felt by the National banks.

At 2 this afternoon the run on Fletcher's bank had perceptibly decreased.

RUSSIAN SPIES.

After the fall of Napoleon III. Gov. Curtin, the American Minister at St. Petersburg, paid a brief visit to London, on which occasion he was invited to Chiselmhurst by the dethroned monarch, who gave him a hearty welcome and talked with him a long time about his early career, his poverty, his former life in London, and his visit to New York. After two hours' conversation he came at last to the subject which had led him to seek this interview with Curtin. He said:

"You are on intimate terms with Gortschakoff; have you any objection to tell me what are his actual views respecting the restoration of the Empire?" "I know his views on the subject," answered Mr. Curtin, "but I do not feel justified in communicating them to you."

"I understand," said the Emperor, "I am greatly obliged for your courtesy in calling upon me."

Gortschakoff's opinion, which Curtin forebore to mention, was couched in rather strong language. He had said that he would never stir a finger to restore that French rascal to the throne, as he considered him dangerous to the peace of Europe. On his return to St. Petersburg, Curtin received an invitation to dine with Prince Gortschakoff, who said to him, during the repast:

"You have been away?"

"Yes; in London."

"Saw many people there?"

"Yes, I met with a few American friends of note."

"I am told you saw, among the rest, the man who once appeared to hold the fate of Europe in his hands?"

"Yes, I saw him," said Mr. Curtin.

"Have you any objection to mention the topics of your conversation?"

"They were of no importance, and related chiefly to personal matters."

Here Gortschakoff remarked, with an expressive look:

"I know all the particulars of that conversation. I am greatly obliged to you for your reticence as regards my views on the restoration of the Empire."

As there was no third person present at the interview between Curtin and the Emperor, this conversation gave him a very high opinion of the perfection of the Russian spy system.—Neue Brie Presse.

Since John Lyons, J. H. Knight and others have incorporated a street railway at Elkhart, another company has been organized and over $20,000 of the capital stock was taken up in a short time.

A telegram from New York announced the death of Dr. James A. Adrian, of Logansport. He was one of the most prominent men in that section, and represented Cass county in the legislature for several years. Before he left for the east he bought a lot in the cemetery, erected a monument and gave instructions concerning his burial. He has no living relatives.

Reports from lower points on the White and Wabash rivers say those streams are rising rapidly, and fears are entertained of a disastrous overflow at many places along the rivers. Immense gorges formed during the recent cold weather, and the rapidly rising water has broken them loose and they are moving down, causing great destruction to bridges and floating craft.

A novel solution of the liquor question, of interest in Indiana, is proposed by a bill which will be introduced in the Ohio legislature this week by Representative Washburn, of Lorain county. Its provisions are about as follows: "The citizens of Ohio are divided into two classes—habitual drinkers and teetotalers. In order to be prepared to secure his morning drink a man must appear before the probate court and make affidavit that he desires to become a habitual drinker. He is then given a certificate, for which he is to pay fifty cents, authorizing any saloon-keeper to sell him liquor. This document is to be shown whenever a drink is wanted, before the saloonist is permitted to furnish the customer with intoxicants. Saloon-keepers violating the provisions of the act are subject to fine and imprisonment, which are increased every time the offense is repeated."

There were expended during 1885, in the erection of new buildings in the city of New York, the sum of $45,000,000, besides $7,000,000 expended in alteration of existing buildings. The following table shows how these figures compare with corresponding returns from other cities:

City	Estimated population	Outlay on buildings, buildings	No. of buildings
New York	1,350,000	$22,000,000	8,308
Chicago	650,000	19,000,000	3,133
Boston	400,000	12,000,000	1,664
St. Paul	125,000	3,500,000	3,451
Minneapolis	140,000	9,700,000	3,370

Minneapolis expended about $69 to each inhabitant; St. Paul, $68; New York, $33; Boston, $32, and Chicago, $29. The average cost of the new buildings in New York was more than in the other cities, that in St. Paul being least. Among Chicago's buildings were nearly 350 "flats." The number of dwelling houses erected in St. Paul and Minneapolis was not only proportionally but actually greater than the number built in the other cities.

A CHILD AND A WASP.

His Mother Tells the Nurse to Let Him Have It and He Gets It.

Among the passengers on the St. Louis express on the Erie Railway, between Port Jervis and Jersey City, was a very much overdressed woman, accompanied by a bright-looking Irish nurse girl, who had charge of a self-willed, tyrannical 2-year-old boy, of whom the overdressed woman was plainly the mother. The mother occupied a seat by herself. The nurse and child were in a seat immediately in front of her. The child gave such frequent exhibitions of temper, and kept the car filled with such vicious yells and shrieks, that there was a general feeling of savage indignation among the passengers. Although he time and again spat in his nurse's face, scratched her hands until the blood came, and tore her hair and bonnet, she bore with him patiently. The indignation of the passengers was made the greater because the child's mother made no effort to correct or quiet him, but, on the contrary, sharply chided the nurse whenever she manifested any firmness. Whatever the boy yelled for, the mother's cry was, uniformly:

"Let him have it, Mary."

By the time the train passed Turner's the feelings of the passengers had been wrought up to the boiling point. The remark was made audibly here and there that "it would be worth paying for to have the young one chucked out of the window." The hopeful mother was not moved by the very evident annoyance the passengers felt, and at last fixed herself down in her seat for a comfortable nap. The child had just slapped the nurse in the face for the hundredth time, and was preparing for a fresh attack when a wasp came along from somewhere in the car and flew against the window of the nurse's seat. The boy at once made a dive for the wasp as it struggled upward on the glass. The nurse quickly caught his hand, and said to him, coaxingly:

"Harry mustn't touch! Bug will bite Harry!"

Harry gave a savage yell, and began to kick and slap the nurse. The mother awoke from her nap. She heard her son's screams, and, without lifting her head or opening her eyes, she called out sharply to the nurse:

"Why will you tease that child so, Mary? Let him have it at once!"

Mary let go of Harry. He settled back into her seat with an air of resignation, but there was a sparkle in her eye. The boy clutched at the wasp, and finally caught it. The yell that followed caused joy to the entire car, for every eye was on the boy. The mother awoke again.

"Mary," she cried, "let him have it!"

Mary turned calmly in her seat, and, with a wicked twinkle in her eye, said:

"Sure, he's got it, mum!"

This brought the car down. Every one in it roared. The child's mother rose up in her seat with a jerk. When she learned what the matter was she pulled her boy over the back of the seat and awoke some sympathy for him by laying him across her knee and warming him nicely. In ten minutes he was as quiet and meek as a lamb, and he never opened his head again until the train reached Jersey City.—New York Sun.

WILLIAM TELL AND GESSLER.

One by one all the romantic episodes of yore are being ruthlessly obliterated by the modern rationalist school of historians, and their latest decision is that no such hero as William Tell and no such tyrant as Gessler ever existed. They claim, although their deeds are recorded in song and legend, that Tell and Gessler are but mythical personages; but a recent adventure shows that it would be unwise to vent these skeptical ideas among the zealous believers of the four forest cantons. It appears that Baron von Gessler, a Russian nobleman of German extraction, but who never dreamed that the detested Landvogt of Schiller's play had a place on his family tree, hired a boat, together with some friends to cross from Brunnen to the Rudi. During the passage one of the party chanced to address the young nobleman by his name. The boatman started with horror. He dropped his oar for a moment, and then said to the astonished company, "I would not have a Gessler in my boat for 100 francs." In spite of all entreaties and attempted explanations, he turned the head of his boat, rowed to the land and insisted that the supposed descendant of Gessler should disembark.

PAIN itself is not without alleviations. It may be violent and frequent, but it is seldom both violent and long-continued, and its pauses and intermissions become positive pleasures. It has the power of shedding a satisfaction over intervals of ease which I believe few enjoyments exceed.

Both houses of parliament met to-day and adjourned until Thursday, pending the formation of a new cabinet.

DEATH OF MRS. BAYARD.

Wife of the Secretary of State, of Congestion of the Brain.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Bayard, wife of the secretary of state, died at her residence in this city, at 8:30 yesterday morning. The immediate cause of her death was congestion of the brain, brought on by the shock of her daughter's sudden death, two weeks ago. For the first week following that event she stood the strain and excitement quite well, but a week ago last Friday she was compelled to take to her bed and gradually grew worse from day to day. On Thursday congestion of the brain made its appearance. She was unconscious for twenty-four hours before her death. Although for years Mrs. Bayard had been a confirmed invalid, she had for the last six months been in better health than for many years.

The death of Mrs. Bayard will have a marked effect upon the social festivities at the capital. It closes in absolute mourning, for a week, the white house, and the homes of the cabinet ministers, and withdraws from society the president and Miss Cleveland, the members of the cabinet and their families. It is believed Mr. Bayard will very soon retire to private life. The death of his wife has completely crushed him, a correspondent says. When his daughter died, a few days ago, he was almost prostrated, and would then have insisted upon resigning from his official position had not friends persuaded him to reconsider.

Total score for the five nights: Schaefer, 3,000; Vignaux, 2,838.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The telephone question came up in the house to-day and dilatory motions were ruled down. The debt statement for January will show a reduction of about $8,250,000. CLOSED BY CREDITORS.

Wm. Oetting, the Grocer and Baker, is Embarrassed Financially—His Liabilities.

This morning a posse of constables seized the grocery and bakery of Wm. Oetting, on South Calhoun street, to secure the payment of a judgment for $70.78 in favor of Secor, Berdan & Co., of Toledo, and a judgment of $60 in favor of Strans & Heimberger, of Chicago, taken in Justice France's court, this morning early. A. C. Trentman got judgment for $556.65, in the superior court, a little later, and when Sheriff Nelson got there he found the constables in charge. A chattel mortgage for $102.50 in favor of B. W. Skelton covers the stock and furniture of Mr. Oetting, and, if this paper is valid, it is probable other creditors will get little money unless other property is found available. Mr. Oetting is a young man and his failure can be attributed to drink, another argument that a man can't swallow liquor and do business.

The Nickel Plate Suits.

In the Nickel Plate suits at Cleveland, Saturday, the Central Trust company, of New York, filed an answer to the cross petition of the trustees of the equipment bondholders, claiming that a large amount of the equipment had been delivered to the Nickel Plate company before the execution of the lease or agreement under which the equipment bond trustees claim the property, and that this equipment so delivered is subject to the mortgage of the first bondholders. The Central Trust company asks that the equipment bond trustees be compelled to make an account of money paid for equipment, and that they be enjoined from disposing or interfering with the equipment until the final settlement of the suit.

Many vain attempts are made to repeat the remarkable success of Benson's Caprine Plaster in curing rheumatism, neuralgia, and all kinds of pain everywhere, and its prompt action and unparalleled curative powers have won for it its reputation. It is not a plaster, but a plaster under similar sounding names, such as "Caprine," "Caprineum," etc., intended to deceive the careless and unwary. These articles possess none of the virtues of the genuine. There-

OFFICIAL PAPER COUNTY AND CITY.

MONDAY, FEB. 1, 1886.

The mayor of Philadelphia has issued a proclamation cautioning citizens against violating the Sunday law of 1794.

GENERAL SHERMAN will abandon St.
Louis as a place of residence and locate in New York. This is a decided advantage for Chicago, as St. Louis will seldom leap into prominence hereafter.

So far 15,000 changes have been made among the 50,000 fourth-class postmasters. The work of making changes is about over, and the future movement will be to fill the vacancies caused by resignations and to supply new offices with postmasters. There is more civil service in the figures above quoted than the entire republican administration can boast of.

The weeping willow, says the Garden,
seems to have had a romantic history.
The first cion was sent from Smyrna in a box of figs, to Alexander Pope. Gen.
Clinton brought a shoot from Pope's tree to America in the time of the Revolution, which, passing into the hands of John Parke Custis, was planted on his estate in Virginia, thus becoming the progenitor of the weeping willow in America.

The secret of Mr. Bigelow's refusal to accept the position of assistant treasurer at New York has at last leaked out. His wife objected to his assuming an office of so much care and responsibility, and in compliance with her wishes he wrote the letter of declination. As the story goes, however, he was afraid of the ridicule Republican papers would heap on him if his reason for giving up the office were disclosed, and so he carefully kept it from the public.

Five Mile Beach Island, near Cape
May, has an unique and beautiful feature in its holly groves, which stretch for four miles along the island. Many of them are very aged trees. Their trunks are more than a foot in diameter at half their height. The light gray bark, with tints of pale green and patches of brown, bring together the hoariness of age and the tenderness of youth. The moss hangs from the branches as if the forest were Southern, while the evergreen leaves and the bright red berries keep up the illusion of summer in the drearier days of winter.

An urn of clay lately found while a ditch was being dug on the east side of the Isle of Gothland has been sent to the Stockholm Museum. It contains 2,696 unbroken and 191 broken silver coins, part with old German and part with Anglo-Saxon stamps. There are besides silver bracelets, some with figurings appended to them, and also some rods of the finest silver, such as in early times were cut and used instead of money. The total weight of the treasure is about nine pounds. The chief interest for antiquarians lies in the fact that old German and Anglo-Saxon coins have been found together.

An inquest was held at the Earlwood Asylum for Idiots, near Redhill, concerning the death of William Arthur Hawley, aged 20 years, an inmate of that institution. Dr. Cobbold, the Medical Superintendent, stated that the deceased was admitted the 21st of May, 1883, in a feeble state of health, dribbling at the mouth, and very thin. He had a vicious appetite and was unable to speak or dress himself. Witness had made a post-mortem examination and found the stomach very much enlarged, and in it he discovered a large roll of foreign substance, consisting of human hair, horsehair, and cocoon fibre, and a few dead leaves, the whole weighing two pounds and a quarter and completely blocking up the stomach.
Witness was aware that the deceased had a habit of pulling out his own hair,
but did not know that he swallowed it.
He was almost baldheaded through that habit. It would have been quite impossible for him to have forced the quantity of hair and fibre witness had mentioned down his throat at one time.
It must have been going on for years.
The jury returned a verdict in accordance with the medical evidence.

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla is a London paper that the highest velocity yet imparted to a cannon ball is 1,825 feet per second, equal to a mile in 3.2 seconds. The velocity of the earth at the equator, due to rotation on its axis, is 1,000 miles per hour, or a mile in 3.6 seconds; thus, if a cannon ball were fired due west and could maintain its initial velocity, it would beat the sun in its apparent journey around the earth.

In the face of all the disasters that have attended expeditions toward the North Pole, there are indications that another is to be undertaken. Thus far the champion's "belt," like so many others, belongs to us, our explorers having penetrated to within six or seven degrees of the point in question. If one of Greeley's hardy adventurers crossed the eighty-fourth parallel, he had but 400 miles further to go.

The German Emperor William and the Imperial Princess pay the full tariff on all private and government railways, whether it is for single tickets or special trains, with the exception of the line between Cassel and Frankfurt, on which the Emperor and the Empress travel free of charge. Prince Bismarck paid for all his railway tickets until 1870,
when the Society of German Railway Administrations presented him with a saloon carriage, in which he travels free on all lines belonging to the society, as well as on all government railway lines.

The Washington correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat writes:
"When Senator Berry, of Arkansas, came on to take his seat Col. Dave Caruth of St. Louis, who is an intimate personal friend of Mr. Berry, wrote to Senator Vest requesting him, as a personal favor, to 'take care' of the new Senator.
Judge Rogers, of the Arkansas delegation, tells how the Missouriian discharged the trust. When the new Senator appeared Mr. Vest approached him and said: 'Berry, Dave Caruth writes me to take care of you. All I've got to say to you is, to bring on your family and keep them with you. If you don't, in six months you won't be worth a d—n'.
That was the sum total of Mr. Vest's advice; but Judge Rogers says it was the very best that could be given."

ONE of the daughters of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton gives an amusing account of the way her mother and Miss Susan B. Anthony work together on their "History of Woman Suffrage."
Mrs. Stanton is a stickler for the philosophy of the suffrage movement, and Miss Anthony is punctilious about dates.
The two dear old ladies often get into excited discussions over the subject, and dip their pens into their mutilated bottles and their mutilated brushes into their ink bottles in their excitement over their work. They sit at opposite sides of a large double desk in Mrs.
Stanton's library, and occasionally they find each other so persistent in opinion that they sit back and stare at each other in a silence that is very near anger. Once in a while they will march out of the room by different doors, and there seems likelihood that their beautiful friendship of forty years will be broken, but after a while they will be found peaceably at work again together.

In an address before the Liverpool
Geological Society, by Professor Reade, on "The Denudation of the Two Americas," he shows that 150,000,000 tons of matter, in solution, are annually poured into the Gulf of Mexico by the Mississippi River, and this, it is estimated,
would reduce the time for the denudation of one foot of land over the whole basin—which time has hitherto been calculated solely from the matter in suspension—from one foot in 6,000 years to one foot in 4,500 years. Similar calculations applied to the La Plata, the Amazon, and the St. Lawrence show that an average of 100 tons to the square mile, per annum, are removed from the whole American continent.
This, it is stated, agrees with the results previously arrived at by Professor Reade in respect to Europe, from which it is inferred that the whole of the land
draining into the Atlantic from America, Africa, Europe, and Asia, contributes matter in solution which, if reduced to rock at two tons to the cubic yard, would equal one cubic mile every six years.

After Diphtheria.
Diphtheria is a terrible disease, requiring the greatest medical skill to effect a complete cure. Even when its power is broken, it clings to the patient with great persistence, and often leaves the system poisoned and prostrated. Just here Hood's Sarsaparilla does a vast amount of good, expelling impurities from the blood, giving it richness and vitality, while it renovates and strengthens the system.

The state health board statistics show 18,133 marriages in the state during the past year, of which 607 were colored.

Sprains, lameness pains and stitches, weak back or disease of the spine will be immediately relieved on application of a Hop Plaster over the affected part. Its penetrative power is wonderful. Warranted to be the best made.

They are Not Boring.

There is one thing nobody ever regrets
—that is, the day they first adopted Parker's Tonic as their regular family medicine. Its range is so wide, and its good effects so sure, that nothing else, except good nursing, are needed in a great majority of cases. Buy it, try it, and afterwards it will not require any praise from us.

EPITHELIOMA! OR SKIN CANCER.

For seven years I suffered with a cancer on my face. All the simple remedies were applied to alleviate the pain, but the place continued to grow, finally extending into my nose, from which came a yellowish discharge very offensive in character. It was also inflamed, and annoyed me a great deal. About eight months ago I was in Atlanta, at the house of a friend, who strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific that I determined to make an effort to procure it. In this I was successful, and began its use. The influence of the medicine at first was to somewhat aggravate the sore; but soon the inflammation was allayed, and I began to improve after the first few bottles. My general health has greatly improved. I am stronger, and able to do any kind of work. The cancer on my face began to decrease and the ulcer to heal, until there is now a vestige left only a little scar marks the place where it had been. I am ready to answer all questions relative to this cure.

Mrs. JOICIE A. McDONALD,
Atlanta, Ga., August 11, 1885.

I have had a cancer on my face for some years, extending from one cheek bone across the nose to the other. It has given me great deal of pain, at times burning and itching to such an extent that it was almost unbearable. I commenced using Swift's Specific in May, 1885, and have used eight bottles. It has given the greatest relief by removing the inflammation and restoring my general health.

W. BARNES.
Knoxville, Iowa, Sept. 8, 1885.

For many years I was a sufferer with cancer of the nose, and having been cured by the use of S. S. S., I feel constrained by a sense of duty to suffering humanity to make this statement of my case. With the 14th bottle the cancer began to heal rapidly and soon disappeared, and for several months there has been no reappearance of a sore of any kind on my nose or face, neither is my nose at all tender to the touch. I have taken about two dozen bottles S. S. S., and am soundly cured, and I know that S. S. S. effected the cure after every known remedy was tried and had failed.

ROBERT SMEDLEY.
Fort Gaines, Ga., May 1, 1885.

I had heard of the wonderful cures of Swift's Specific, and resolved to try it. I commenced taking it in April, 1884. My general health was much improved, yet the cancer which was in my breast continued to grow slowly but surely. The tumor became quite heavy. I felt that I must either have it cut out, or I must commence discharging quantities of blood, thick and dark. It continued healing around the edges until February, when it was entirely healed up and well.

BETTY WOOD.
Colesburg, Plymouth Co., Mass., July 13, 1885.

Swift's Specific is entirely vegetable, and seems to cure cancers by forcing out the impurities from the blood.

In describing the quinine forests of the Andes, the German traveler, Fritz Brannhöf, says: "The little town of La Paz is situated in the State of Condemamarca, ten thousand feet above the level of the sea. Ten years ago it was hardly known by name, while to-day it is to the manufacturer and merchant of quinine the most important point on the globe. Although a small village which cannot even boast of a hotel, there is more life and traffic going on than in many large cities. The days are exceedingly hot, while the nights are refreshingly cool. Although American, German, English, and French agents have had business transactions here for years, there is little social life among them; they seem to mistrust each other, there being a painful mysteriousness in their business intercourse; but, as the heavy transactions take place mostly in forests and mountains, social intercourse in the town seems not to be required. Upon our arrival at La Paz, we engaged a small dwelling for three months; twenty wood-choppers were hired for the same period, and, provided with the necessary provisions, we struck out for the mountains. The chief remained in town to direct the packing and export of the cinchona bark. The bark is sent to La Paz either in small rolls stripped from the twigs or larger branches, or in flat or thick slabs from the trunk or main roots of the trees. It is graded into four qualities: first, the brown or gray, also called the Peruvian bark; second, the yellow or Bolivia bark; third, the red bark; and fourth, the imitation, or "quininova." The price of the bark is regulated according to the amount of alkaloid and other medicinal ingredients it contains. The most valuable is the cinchona-flava and cinchona-calisaya, which contains most of the alkaloid. The latter is the only tree of the cinchona family which grows in the vicinity of La Paz, and is found at a height of from 3,300 to 11,600 feet above the level of the sea. As the product differs in strength, chemists are employed to determine and classify its value accordingly.

The hills and mountains are covered with dense forests of these ever green trees, but their destruction is so rapid that the Government of Condemamarca had recently to pass a law prohibiting the young trees from being slaughtered together with the rest. As soon as a certain amount of bark has been secured it is dried on the spot and its quantity of quinine examined, and if the result is satisfactory the felling of trees is proceeded with. While half the men are thus occupied the other half peel off the bark, and every evening the produce of the day is loaded upon mules and sent to La Paz where it is pulverized, sewed into hides or bags, and immediately transported to the cities on the coast.

The sojourn in these forests, with a damp atmosphere and the absence of fresh water, is exceedingly unhealthy. When it is considered that thousands of hands are continually busy in felling these trees, an idea can be had of the enormous consumption of quinine. However, it will not be many years before the cinchona forests of the Andes will be among the things of the past. The Dutch have of late years cultivated the quinine tree in the East Indies, and especially in Java, with surprising results; here the trees are not destroyed, but only partially deprived of their bark, so that in the course of years the bark is renewed and ready for another crop.

VALUE OF A NAME.
In a recent number of the Chicago Current is an article on "Dubious History," which is trite and sensible, if not cuttingly sarcastic in its tone. One of the wisest of Des Moines clergymen said recently at a meeting of the literati: "You can not be original in dealing with history." But Admiral Porter and a few other latter-day scribblers imagine anything which falls from his pen a scintillation worthy the grave attention of the whole country. "Allan Dare" created quite a furor in society circles upon its appearance last winter. How much more wholesome was the book in tone than any yellow-backed novel? And as for classic merit, it fell far short of any such thing. A great many people undoubtedly read "Lincoln at Richmond" in the last Century with great relish, because the name of Admiral Porter was signed to it. The personal description of Lincoln on his arrival at Richmond is laughable and of the real dime-novel style. It reminds one of the fustian pronounced over Gen. Grant by Dr. Newman. Mr. Trumbull says in his article: "It is the offense of story-tellers like Admiral Porter, whose rank in the State brought them into personal relation with Mr. Lincoln, that they think it necessary when they write about him to describe him as the low-comedy man of that wonderful drama in which he played the most conspicuous part, and in which he was the most important sacrifice."

It seems almost a sacrilege that Lincoln, simple, brave, grand soldier and man that he was, should be handled in a sensational style by such a writer as Admiral Porter. But all the world does homage to a name. Let a General, a Queen, a Lord, an Admiral write a book and everybody sings praises regardless. "Endymion," from the pen of Disraeli, was "stuffed." Miss Cleveland's book, while possessing merit, is not wonderful. Queen Victoria, dear, simple old soul, told to the four corners of the earth the story of her John Brown in serio-comic style, and everybody bought her book because a Queen wrote it. And so it happens. There is much in a name, in the literary world particularly. —Des Moines Mail.

THE VALUE OF RICHES.
A large income will purchase for a man the comfort, the tangible and intangible good which a small income will not. Nothing will controvert this fact. Not all the preaching and philosophy in the world can persuade a rational man that money is not a good thing, which will enable him to educate his children, to give them their choice of work in life, to procure skilled physicians, luxuries, and change of air for his wife when death threatens her, to help the poor, to forward the cause of Christianity, and, for himself, to rest for a brief space before he leaves this beautiful world, to find out what is in it beyond drudgery. There are high spiritual blessings, no doubt, which come to us through poverty, but the extremely small number of persons who voluntarily become hermits or paupers in these latter days in order to obtain them, show how uncertain the popular faith in them has grown. Money is of value to a man just in proportion as it buys for him these assured benefits, or anything else which he esteems a benefit. —Philadelphia Press.

DAHLIAS IN MEXICO.
The forests are full of wild dahlia, growing about three feet high and producing only single blossoms of pale yellow. They are perennial in Mexico, and from this country were first carried across the sea. The double flowers, with their one hundred tints and varieties, have been produced by cultivation, and many a wealthy Mexican who imports his garden dahlia from Europe at great expense has not the remotest idea that the plant is indigenous to his own soil. Dahlia roots are a staple article of food among the Indians, who eat them boiled and salted. Though somewhat insipid to the taste, they are decidedly preferable to the wild potatoes; and perhaps the day is coming when these bulbs, made made succulent by horticulture, will furnish our table with a new delicacy. Quisenabe? —Cor. New York Sun.

SHE HAD THE LAST WORD.
"This paper says it is a remarkable fact that Congressmen never have the diphtheria," said Mrs. Tattler to her husband. "I see nothing strange about that," replied her husband, "for they are always talking like a lot of old woman, and don't give the diphtheria a chance." "Oho! so they don't keep off the diphtheria like you do, John." "Me? I never had diphtheria." "No, John, I know you haven't; but I you ever stop drinking long enough to give the diphtheria a chance?" —California Maverick.

EFFECT OF LONG CLIMBS.
During eighteen ascents of lofty mountains—from 5,000 to 15,000 feet in height—M. Vernet has made a number of physiological observations on himself. He finds that the strong exertion—both in mounting and descending—caused an average rise in bodily temperature of about three degrees; a rise in the pulse from about 75 to 83 in a minute; and an increase in respiration from about 21 to 25 in a minute.

RAISING A QUESTION.
"Old Deacon Smith is a pessimist," remarked an Oakland man to his wife, in the presence of his precocious son, who exclaimed: "Why, father, what a lie!" "What do you mean, sir?" thundered the father. "I say he ain't. He's a Methodist, that's what he is." —California Maverick.

An ancient burying-ground was recently unearthed in Paris while digging a trench in the Rue Salanda. The coffins of stone and plaster found there have been traced to the seventh, eighth, and ninth centuries. They were pointed to the east, and had crosses inscribed in a circle, symbolical of eternity, and other emblems of Christianity. The coffins were found filled with dirt, their covers having given way.

The French say, for good luck, the first time an infant's nails are cut put a piece of gold or silver in its hand. To make a good singer, cut its nails behind a door, and to preserve it from toothache cut the nails on a Monday. White spots on the nails of a child's right hand indicate good luck; if on the left, a tendency to approach St. Paul's opinion of the Cretans.

CONGRESSMAN GAY, of Louisiana, has good reason to be gay. He is worth a million.

In the Dear Old Days.

We differ in creed and politics, but we are a unit all the same on the desirableness of a fine head of hair. If you mourn the loss of this blessing and ornament, a bottle or two of Parker's Hair Balsam will make you feel as you did in the dear old days. It is worth trying. It is the only standard 50c article for the hair.

The sweet gum, as gathered from a tree of the same name, growing along the small streams in the Southern States, contains a stimulating expectorant principle that loosens the phlegm producing the early morning cough, and stimulates the child to throw off the false membrane in croup and whooping-cough. When combined with the healing, mucous principle in the mullein plant of the old fields, presents in Taylor's Cherokee Remedy of Sweet Gum, Croup, Whooping-cough and Consumption; and so palatable, any child is pleased to take it. Ask your druggist for it. 25c and 50c sizes. If he does not keep it, we will pay, for one time only, express charges on large orders, to any part of the U. S. on receipt of $1.00.

"The Mendelssohn Quintette club gave their first concert last evening to a large audience at Mercantile Library hall. It would indeed be hard to say much for the musical taste of any city where this company should fail to draw a crowded house. Whichever people may say of Boston—and people will say hard things about Boston—she has given us the Mendelssohn Quintette club, and that covers a multitude of her shortcomings," says the St. Louis Globe of the Mendelssohn which appears of the Temple to-morrow evening.

When this freight moves our business will pick up and the Wabash shops will run as usual. This is all there is to the brief shut down," said Mr. Barnes in a candid way.

JUDGE WOODS. Will not Abandon the Federal Bench Just Yet.

The Goshen Daily News gives currency to the report that Judge Woods, of the federal court, is about to resign, on account of the insufficiency of the salary, $3,500 a year, and engage in the practice of his profession. An Indianapolis News reporter asked Judge Woods about the matter Saturday morning and he said that the first he had heard of it was in the paper and that he had no intention of resigning. This puts a quietus on the race for the judicial place in the service of Uncle Sam and may disappoint some persons.

Inequalities of the Assessment Law. The inequalities which grow out of the method employed for assessing property for taxation purposes are deserving of some legislative attention. The assessor in one county may, for instance, value certain farming land at $100 per acre. In an adjoining county the same kind of land may be assessed at $200. The local revenue in these cases may be made nearly, if not quite equal, by the various boards of commissioners; but the state is defrauded because the state levy is uniform and land owners in one county may thus be paying twice as much in state taxes as their neighbors. The state auditor advises that the system of taxation be reformed either by authorizing the state board of equalization to pro-rate the tax assessment on the basis of population and square miles, or by a return to the old system of district boards of equalization for supervising county assessments.

FINANCIAL FLUTTER.

A Hoosier Bank Falls and a Run on Others.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL. INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 1.—Ritzinger Brothers' bank, established in 1867, and which has done a large business among the Germans, did not open its doors this morning, the proprietors, Frank L. and Augustus W. Ritzinger, having made an assignment to George B. Yandes. The papers were executed after midnight this morning. Rumors caused a falling off in its business to such a degree as to necessitate a suspension of business.

The partners say that every dollar will be paid. One of the attorneys says the assets will amount to between $300,000 and $400,000, but its estate is not easily convertible. In banking circles it is said the Ritzingers have lost $100,000 within the past nine months on whisky and $10,000 on stoves, which is the exciting cause of the failure. An angry crowd surrounded the bank doors all the morning.

A run has begun on S. A. Fletcher & Co.'s bank, but it is hoped and believed that they will be amply able to weather the storm. This is the oldest in the city and regarded as the most substantial.

No effect has yet been felt by the National banks.

At 2 this afternoon the run on Fletcher's bank had perceptibly decreased.

RUNSLAP SPIES.

After the fall of Napoleon III. Gov. Curtin, the American Minister at St. Petersburg, paid a brief visit to London, on which occasion he was invited to Chiselhurst by the deposed monarch, who gave him a hearty welcome and talked with him a long time about his early career, his poverty, his former life in London, and his visit to New York. After two hours' conversation he came at last to the subject which had led him to seek this interview with Curtin. He said:

"You are on intimate terms with Gortschakoff; have you any objection to tell me what are his actual views respecting the restoration of the Empire?"

"I know his views on the subject," answered Mr. Curtin, "but I do not feel justified in communicating them to you."

"I understand," said the Emperor, "I am greatly obliged for your courtesy in calling upon me."

Gortschakoff's opinion, which Curtin forebore to mention, was couched in rather strong language. He had said that he would never stir a finger to restore that French rascal to the throne, as he considered him dangerous to the peace of Europe. On his return to St. Petersburg, Curtin received an invitation to dine with Prince Gortschakoff, who said to him, during the repast:

"You have been away?"

"Yes; in London."

"Saw many people there?"

"Yes, I met with a few American friends of note."

"I am told you saw, among the rest, the man who once appeared to hold the fate of Europe in his hands?"

"Yes, I saw him," said Mr. Curtin.

"Have you any objection to mention the topics of your conversation?"

"They were of no importance, and related chiefly to personal matters."

Here Gortschakoff remarked, with an expressive look:

"I know all the particulars of that conversation. I am greatly obliged to you for your reticence as regards my views on the restoration of the Empire."

As there was no third person present at the interview between Curtin and the Emperor, this conversation gave him a very high opinion of the perfection of the Russian spy system.—New York Press.

A telegram from New York announced the death of Dr. James A. Adrian, of Logansport. He was one of the most prominent men in that section, and represented Cass county in the legislature for several years. Before he left for the east he bought a lot in the cemetery, erected a monument and gave instructions concerning his burial. He has no living relatives.

Reports from lower points on the White and Wabash rivers say those streams are rising rapidly, and fears are entertained of a disastrous overflow at many places along the rivers. Immense gorges formed during the recent cold weather, and the rapidly rising water has broken them loose and they are moving down, causing great destruction to bridges and floating craft.

A novel solution of the liquor question, of interest in Indiana, is proposed by a bill which will be introduced in the Ohio legislature this week by Representative Washburn, of Lorain county. Its provisions are about as follows: "The citizens of Ohio are divided into two classes—habitual drinkers and teetotalers. In order to be prepared to secure his morning drink a man must appear before the probate court and make affidavit that he desires to become an habitual drinker. He is then given a certificate, for which he is to pay fifty cents, authorizing any saloon-keeper to sell him liquor. This document is to be shown whenever a drink is wanted, before the saloonist is permitted to furnish the customer with intoxicants. Saloon-keepers violating the provisions of the act are subject to fine and imprisonment, which are increased every time the offense is repeated."

There were expended during 1885, in the erection of new buildings in the city of New York, the sum of $45,000,000, besides $7,000,000 expended in alteration of existing buildings. The following table shows how those figures compare with corresponding returns from other cities:

City	Population	Building	Expenditure
New York	1,350,000	$45,000,000	$7,000,000
Chicago	650,000	19,000,000	3,300,000
Boston	400,000	12,000,000	1,600,000
St. Paul	125,000	8,500,000	2,400,000
Minneapolis	110,000	6,700,000	3,370,000

Minneapolis expended about $69 to each inhabitant; St. Paul, $68; New York, $38; Boston, $32, and Chicago, $29. The average cost of the new buildings in New York was more than in the other cities, that in St. Paul being least. Among Chicago's buildings were nearly 350 "flats." The number of dwelling houses erected in St. Paul and Minneapolis was not only proportionally but actually greater than the number built in the other cities.

A CHILD AND A WASP.

His Mother Tells the Nurse to Let Him Have It and He Gets It.

Among the passengers on the St. Louis express on the Erie Railway, between Port Jervis and Jersey City, was a very much overdressed woman, accompanied by a bright-looking Irish nurse girl, who had charge of a self-willed, tyrannical 2-year-old boy, of whom the overdressed woman was plainly the mother. The mother occupied a seat by herself. The nurse and child were in a seat immediately in front of her. The child gave such frequent exhibitions of temper, and kept the car filled with such vicious yells and shrieks, that there was a general feeling of savage indignation among the passengers. Although he time and again spat in his nurse's face, scratched her hands until the blood came, and tore her hair and bonnet, she bore with him patiently. The indignation of the passengers was made the greater because the child's mother made no effort to correct or quiet him, but, on the contrary, sharply rebuked the nurse whenever she manifested any firmness. Whatever the boy yelled for, the mother's cry was, uniformly:

"Let him have it, Mary." By the time the train passed Turner's the feelings of the passengers had been wrought up to the boiling point. The remark was made audibly here and there that "it would be worth paying for to have the young one choked out of the window." The hopeful mother was not moved by the very evident annoyance the passengers felt, and at last fixed herself down in her seat for a comfortable nap. The child had just slapped the nurse in the face for the hundredth time, and was preparing for a fresh attack when a wasp came along from somewhere in the car and flew against the window of the nurse's seat. The boy at once made a dive for the wasp as it struggled upward on the glass. The nurse quickly caught his hand, and said to him, coaxingly:

"Harry mustn't touch! Bug will bite Harry!"

Harry gave a savage yell, and began to kick and slap the nurse. The mother awoke from her nap. She heard her son's screams, and, without lifting her head or opening her eyes, she called out sharply to the nurse:

"Why will you tease that child so, Mary? Let him have it at once!"

Mary let go of Harry. She settled back into her seat with an air of resignation, but there was a sparkle in her eye. The boy clutched at the wasp, and finally caught it. The yell that followed caused joy to the entire car, for every eye was on the boy. The mother awoke again.

"Mary," she cried, "let him have it!"

Mary turned calmly in her seat, and, with a wicked twinkle in her eye, said:

"Sure, he's got it, mum!"

This brought the car down. Every one in it roared. The child's mother rose up in her seat with a jerk. When she learned what the matter was she pulled her boy over the back of the seat and awoke some sympathy for him by laying him across her knee and warming him nicely. In ten minutes he was as quiet and meek as a lamb, and he never opened his head again until the train reached Jersey City.—New York Sun.

WILLIAM TELL AND GESSLER.

One by one all the romantic episodes of yore are being ruthlessly obliterated by the modern rationalist school of historians, and their latest decision is that no such hero as William Tell and no such tyrant as Gessler ever existed. They claim, although their deeds are recorded in song and legend, that Tell and Gessler are but mythical personages; but a recent adventure shows that it would be unwise to vent these skeptical ideas among the zealous believers of the four forest cantons. It appears that Baron von Gessler, a Russian nobleman of German extraction, but who never dreamed that the detested Landvogt of Schiller's play had a place on his family tree, hired a boat, together with some friends to cross from Brunnen to the Rudi. During the passage one of the party chanced to address the young nobleman by his name. The boatman started with horror. He dropped his oar for a moment, and then said to the astonished company: "I would not have a Gessler in my boat for 100 francs." In spite of all entreaties and attempted explanations, he turned the head of his boat, rowed to the land and insisted that the supposed descendant of Gessler should disembark.

FAITH itself is not without attentions. It may be violent and frequent, but it is seldom both violent and long-continued, and its passages and interruptions become positive pleasures. It has the power of shedding a satisfaction over intervals of ease which I believe few enjoyments exceed.

KISSED!

The Hands of Her Majesty To-day,

And Then Mr. Gladstone was Commanded to Form a Cabinet at Once.

Mrs. Thomas F. Bayard, Wife of the Secretary of State, Is Dead.

GLADSTONE

To Form a New British Cabinet.

By Cable to THE SENTINEL. LONDON, Feb. 1.—Gladstone left London this morning for Osborne, in response to the command of the queen. He will return to London to-night.

3 p. m.—Gladstone has received the personal command of the queen to form a cabinet. It is officially announced this afternoon that Gladstone kissed the hands of her majesty on receiving her commands. Both houses of parliament met to-day and adjourned until Thursday, pending the formation of a new cabinet.

DEATH OF MRS. BAYARD, Wife of the Secretary of State, of Congestion of the Brain.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL. WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Bayard, wife of the secretary of state, died at her residence in this city, at 8:30 yesterday morning. The immediate cause of her death was congestion of the brain, brought on by the shock of her daughter's sudden death, two weeks ago. For the first week following that event she stood the strain and excitement quite well, but a week ago last Friday she was compelled to take to her bed and gradually grew worse from day to day. On Thursday congestion of the brain made its appearance. She was unconscious for twenty-four hours before her death. Although for years Mrs. Bayard had been a confirmed invalid, she had for the last six months been in better health than for many years.

The death of Mrs. Bayard will have a marked effect upon the social festivities at the capital. It closes in absolute mourning, for a week, the white house, and the homes of the cabinet ministers, and withdraws from society the president and Miss Cleveland, the members of the cabinet and their families. It is believed Mr. Bayard will very soon retire to private life. The death of his wife has completely crushed him, a correspondent says. When his daughter died, a few days ago, he was almost prostrated, and would then have insisted upon resigning from his official position had not friends persuaded him to reconsider.

The Billiard Match.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL. New York, Feb. 1.—The billiard match between Schaefer and Vignaux, which has been in progress for the past five nights, was ended Saturday night. $5,000 was the stake for which the men played, and either was obliged to make 3,000 points to win. Total score for the five nights: Schaefer, 3,000; Vignaux, 2,838.

Grand average for five nights—Schaefer, 20 1/2-145; Vignaux, 19 1/2-143.

Capital News.

By Telegraph to THE SENTINEL. WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—The telephone question came up in the house to-day and dilatory motions were ruled down. The debt statement for January will show a reduction of about $3,250,000. The supreme court of the United States to-day in Virginia coupon cases reversed the decision of the court of appeals of Virginia and decided that the tender of coupons in payment of taxes is legal.

To-morrow is ground hog day.

Dink Trentman beat Will Cooper at billiards 100 to 52 Saturday night. To-night Smith and Cooper play at the House.

Mr. Dora Bennett, of Bluffton, is in the city to-day. Mr. Bennett is making arrangements to go on the road for a large tobacco house.

Henry Ankenbrook and his sweet heart were coming from New Haven last night in a sleigh from L. P. Stapleford's stable. Their horse ran away, spilled them out and then broke a leg by running into a Nickel Plate train at the McIntosh crossing. The horse was shot.

CLOSED BY CREDITORS.

Wm. Oetting, the Grocer and Baker, Is Embarrassed Financially—His Liabilities.

This morning a posse of constables seized the grocery and bakery of Wm. Oetting, on South Calhoun street, to secure the payment of a judgment for $70.78 in favor of Secor, Berdan & Co., of Toledo, and a judgment of $80 in favor of Straus & Heimbarger, of Chicago, taken in Justice France's court, this morning early. A. O. Trentman got judgment for $556.65, in the superior court, a little later, and when Sheriff Nelson got there he found the constables in charge. A chattel mortgage for $102.50 in favor of B. W. Skelton covers the stock and furniture of Mr. Oetting, and, if this paper is valid, it is probable other creditors will get little money unless other property is found available. Mr. Oetting is a young man and his failure can be attributed to drink, another argument that a man can't swallow liquor and do business.

The Nickel Plate Suits.

In the Nickel Plate suits at Cleveland, Saturday, the Central Trust company, of New York, filed an answer to the cross petition of the trustees of the equipment bondholders, claiming that a large amount of the equipment had been delivered to the Nickel Plate company before the execution of the lease or agreement under which the equipment bond trustees claim the property, and that this equipment so delivered is subject to the mortgage of the first bondholders. The Central Trust company asks that the equipment bond trustees be compelled to make an account of money paid for equipment, and that they be enjoined from disposing or interfering with the equipment until the final settlement of the suit.

JUDGE WOODS

Will not Abandon the Federal Bench Just Yet.

The Goshen Daily News gives currency to the report that Judge Woods, of the federal court, is about to resign, on account of the insufficiency of the salary, $3,500 a year, and engage in the practice of his profession. An Indianapolis News reporter asked Judge Woods about the matter Saturday morning and he said that the first he had heard of it was in the paper and that he had no intention of resigning. This puts a quietus on the race for the judicial place in the service of Uncle Sam and may disappoint some persons.

Inequalities of the Assessment Law.

The inequalities which grow out of the method employed for assessing property for taxation purposes are deserving of some legislative attention. The assessor in one county may, for instance, value certain farming land at $100 per acre. In an adjoining county the same kind of land may be assessed at $200. The local revenue in these cases may be made nearly, if not quite equal, by the various boards of commissioners; but the state is defrauded because the state levy is uniform and land owners in one county may thus be paying twice as much in state taxes as their neighbors. The state auditor advises that the system of taxation be reformed either by authorizing the state board of equalization to prorate the tax assessment on the basis of population and square miles, or by a return to the old system of district boards of equalization for supervising county assessments.
